

The Academy for Educational Studies presents the Critical Questions in Education Conference

A blind, peer-reviewed national gathering dedicated to sharing and learning

February 21 – 23, 2022
Francis Marion Hotel
Charleston, South Carolina

Extended deadline for proposals: December 20, 2021

The CQiE Conference encourages conversations and offers participants deliberate opportunities to present, talk, listen, and learn from one another—and to think about how they might change or develop their thinking about teaching and/or teacher education as a consequence of what they learn from others.

2022 Conversation Themes

The state of the teaching profession

- How has teaching (and learning) changed over the course of the last few decades—or changed because of the pandemic and social unrest? Have these changes caused us to lose something essential to teaching and learning? Or are these changes long overdue, bringing something necessary and good to teachers, students, and the tasks of schools?
- How does the public view teachers? What still attracts people to teaching and keeps practicing teachers in the profession? What makes people turn away from it? How are states, school districts and teacher education programs finding, recruiting, and preparing new teachers in response to increasing shortages of teachers?

What inspires your teaching?

- What questions, ideas, or ideals inspire your teaching? What factors—internal or external, personal or social—have played the greatest part in shaping your ideas or ideals?
- What, if anything, has caused you (or may cause you) to doubt or question the ideas that have inspired your teaching?

Books, reading, and writing

- Reprise of 2018 conversation theme: What is the best book, or best education-related book, you have ever read—a book that changed the way you understand human life, teaching, learning, and the task of education? Which of these “best books” should teacher educators, teachers, and teacher education students read?
- Why are so many K-12 and college students “reluctant readers” and poor writers? Is expanded technology more a cause of the problem or a possible solution to it? What other social factors affect the reading and writing of students? What can teachers do to convince students to care about their writing and read important texts carefully and passionately?

Or open topic

Come share conversations on conference questions while presenting on an education-related topic of your choice

The organizing committee seeks participants who offer well-considered and reflective analysis or evaluation. Original research, research review, scholarly efforts, eloquent advocacy, or reports of inspiring practice—all are welcome.

- Individual paper/presentation: Single (or co-authored) papers or prepared presentations. The conference committee will group submissions based on commonality of theme or approach into a 60 or 75 minute session. Presenters will share the session, leaving time for discussion. The committee may arrange poster sessions for graduate student submissions, depending on the number of proposals.
- Panel discussion: Three or more presenters—named, by you, in the proposal—discuss alternative solutions, interpretations, or contrasting points of view on a specified subject or theme. Panels may be either 60 or 75 minutes in length, at the discretion of the organizing committee.
- Book response: Individual papers or panels on a book, especially one related to the theme questions.
